

Scottish Golf

Volunteering Opportunity

Passionate about golf and golf courses? Interested in understanding how courses are rated? Ever wondered how a course receives its Standard Scratch Score?

Scottish Golf are seeking male and female volunteers to join our course rating teams across the country. The role may ideally suit those with availability through the week such as retired individuals or those working shifts, and may be suited to pairs or small groups of people you know with the right skillset. We are particularly seeking volunteers in the regions of:

Aberdeenshire;

Angus;

Ayrshire;

Lanarkshire;

North;

Perth & Kinross;

Stirling & Clackmannan; and

The Borders.

Our Course Rating teams are provided with structured training and support from industry experts until you are an accredited course rater. In return you will enjoy playing and rating courses whilst putting something back into the game.
